AREAS OF EXPERTISE

Personal Injury, Clinical Negligence, Insurance, Credit Hire, Inquests, Industrial Disease, Abuse, International & Travel

Jessica joined Chambers in October 2024 following the successful completion of her pupillage under the supervision of Marcus Dignum KC, Isaac Hogarth, and James Pickering. She accepts instructions in all areas of personal injury, appearing in court several times a week while developing a busy paperwork practice. She is interested in all the core areas of Chambers' expertise.

Prior to pupillage, Jessica worked for HMCTS in an Employment Tribunal and a criminal court, and for a healthcare regulator. She also undertook ProBono work, notably representing families in appeals against school exclusions (via the School Exclusion Project). In addition, during her legal studies she volunteered with Advocate (formerly the Bar ProBono Unit), Liberty, and various law clinics, gaining experience across a breadth of civil work. Jessica will consider cases on a ProBono basis.

Jessica studied biomedical sciences, where she graduated with a first-class degree. In her legal studies, Jessica obtained a distinction in both the GDL and Bar Course, and was supported by Inn and institution scholarships.

Credit Hire

Jessica has extensive experience in credit hire, and is well-versed in all relevant case law pertinent to need, enforceability, rate, period and impecuniosity.

Recent case examples include:

- Having a claim dismissed for lack of need;
- Reducing claims to £nil, by limiting claims to loss of profit under Hussain v EUJ;
- Significant savings related to Copley v Lawn intervention attempts;
- Success from disproving or debarring impecuniosity.
