AREAS OF EXPERTISE

Personal Injury, Abuse, Military Claims, International & Travel, Criminal Injuries Compensation, Industrial Disease, Human Rights, Public Authority Liability, Insurance, Fraud, Group Litigation

Nina is ranked as a leading junior in personal injury in the current editions of Legal 500 and Chambers and Partners, which note that Nina is “crystal-clear in her thinking and analysis” (Legal 500) and has “a commanding presence when on her feet” (Chambers and Partners).

Nina specialises in claims arising out of sexual and physical assaults; harassment claims; military claims; international and group litigation; and human rights aspects of personal injury law. She has been instructed in high-profile litigation in these fields, including in:

Ella Janneh v Michael Lousada [2024] EWHC 1464 (KB): claim for sexual assault brought against therapist.

Her Honour Judge J. J. [2024] EWHC 1464 (KB) [https://www.bailii.org/uk/ew/cases/ewhc/2024/1464.html]

Given her areas of specialism, Nina has particular experience of claims for psychiatric injury and the complex issues of causation that arise.

She is an authority on limitation periods and is co-author of Personal Injury Limitation Law, Bloomsbury (2020) which has received excellent reviews: <https://www.bloomsburyprofessional.com/uk/personal-injury-limitation-law-9781526508607/>

Before coming to the Bar, Nina worked on torture and abuse cases in the international and group claims department of Leigh Day & Co Solicitors; at the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia in the Netherlands; as well as at JUSTICE; Liberty; and the Legal Resources Centre in Durban, South Africa.

Personal Injury

Nina is a leading personal injury practitioner instructed in complex and high-profile litigation.

She acts for claimants and defendants in all manner of personal injury litigation, including sexual abuse claims; military claims; claims arising from accidents abroad; road traffic accident claims; employers' liability claims; claims for occupational stress; chronic pain cases; occupier's, public and product liability claims; highways cases; defective premises claims; and Animals Act claims.

Nina is an authority on limitation periods and is co-author of Personal Injury Limitation Law, Bloomsbury (2020). Given her specialism in abuse and military claims, Nina has particular experience of claims for psychiatric injury and the complex issues of diagnosis and causation that arise. She is often instructed in cases involving novel points for example in relation to the scope and nature of the duty of care.

Her recent personal injury work includes a personal injury claim arising out of the torture of a Palestinian civilian in the Occupied Palestinian Territories; a claim for lifelong selective mutism allegedly caused to a child by a minor accident in a supermarket; numerous claims for chronic pain arising out of physical assaults suffered by teachers; a claim arising out of the suicide of a junior doctor following stress at work; and a product liability claim relating to allegedly defective sexual lubricant.
