His main area of practice is high-value, complex or sensitive personal injury work, in which he acts for Claimants and for Defendants. His current caseload includes the liability and quantum aspects of head injuries, paraplegic and other serious spinal injury cases, amputations, psychiatric injuries and fatal claims.

In industrial disease work he deals with mesothelioma and other asbestos claims, and other occupational illness claims involving difficult issues of liability, causation or quantum.

Personal Injury

Steven is recognised as a leading silk in the Chambers & Partners Guide (Band 1) and in the Legal 500 (Tier 1).

He maintains a claimant / defendant balance in his work, being instructed on behalf of all the major insurance companies but also by most major claimant solicitor firms. He works on his own or with a junior in the full range of personal injury work on liability and quantum, including:

- Maximum severity quantum claims (fatal accidents, brain, spinal, amputation and other catastrophic injuries) with issues including periodical payments, statutory funding, reverse indemnities, pension loss, accommodation claims, prosthetics, assistive technology, etc. He regularly handles cases worth £10m+.
- Road traffic accident claims involving technical expert reconstruction evidence.
- The full range of public liability and employers' liability claims, including occupiers' liability, Animals Act claims and those relating to workplace accidents, defective work equipment, etc. He often deals with issues of contribution among defendants and is familiar with substantial contracts and provisions within them for contractual indemnities.
- Sports injuries (currently acting for one of the defendants in the football concussion group litigation).
- Psychiatric injury claims including functional neurological disorders, functional cognitive disorders and - somatoform disorders.

- Chronic or complex pain conditions including fibromyalgia and ME.
- Cases involving allegations of fraud, exaggeration or fundamental dishonesty.

Industrial Disease

Recognised as one of only 11 silks nationwide in the “spotlight table” for industrial disease in the Chambers & Partners Guide (Band 2).

In this area, Steven predominantly now acts for claimants in respect of asbestos-related illnesses. But he also works in technical disease cases of all sorts for claimants and defendants including carbon monoxide (anoxic brain injury) cases, stress claims and higher-value or group industrial disease litigation.

This work regularly involves complex issues of limitation, breach, causation and apportionment, and dealing with expert medical and engineering evidence. In mesothelioma claims he is very familiar with the process of taking evidence on commission and with the “show cause” procedure. He regularly deals with the quantum side of high-value fatal claims.

Clinical Negligence

Steven is experienced in clinical negligence cases and dealt extensively with expert evidence in the Infected Blood Public Inquiry. Examples of his work include:

- Liability and quantum aspects of catastrophic birth injury (cerebral palsy) claims.
- Acting for EL insurers pursuing contribution in a high-value personal injury claim for hospital's allegedly negligent treatment of claimant following eye injury at work, which led to loss of the eye.
- Failure to spot a lumbar disc injury shortly after a road traffic accident against a background of ankylosing spondylosis.

Public Inquiries

Recognised as a leading silk in the Legal 500 (Tier 4) for Inquests and Inquiries.

- Steven was from 2018 to 2025 leading counsel for the largest group of infected and affected individuals and families in the Infected Blood Public Inquiry, which was the largest public inquiry into deaths and injuries in English legal history. It investigated how, in what was described as the largest treatment disaster in the history of the NHS, haemophiliacs and others were in the 1970s and 1980s given blood factor products and blood transfusions which were contaminated with HIV, Hepatitis C and other viruses with devastating consequences. The wide terms of the Inquiry involved scrutiny of government decisions, the accountability of clinicians and civil servants, commercial exploitation and political cover-up, medical ethics, the involvement and influence of pharmaceutical companies and the inadequacy of current support schemes and Trusts. The Final Report was delivered, with considerable press coverage, in March 2024.
- Steven acted from 2023 to 2025 as leading counsel for the largest group of patients and families in the initial stages of the Essex Mental Health (Lampard) Inquiry, dealing with its conversion from non-statutory to statutory, Terms of Reference, Core Participant status, opening statements, commemorative evidence and the initial hearings of family evidence.

Other examples of his sports work include: successfully defending a catastrophic injury claim arising from a mountain biking accident with allegedly negligent track design; acting in cases of equestrian sporting accidents; and representing a successful amateur boxer in a claim for the loss of the chance of a professional career following an accident.

Inquests

Recognised as a leading silk in the Legal 500 (Tier 4) for Inquests and Inquiries.

Recent examples of Steven’s personal injury work, in addition to the reported cases above, include:

- Acting for one of the defendant Football Associations in the football concussion / heading group litigation. The case raises huge issues of duty, foreseeability, breach, medical diagnosis and medical causation.
- Acting for the Defendant in a case of a devastating brain injury to a young woman which left her lacking capacity in all domains except sexual consent, which led to the need for a considerable future care and support regime. Settlement of the claim was successfully negotiated on the basis of PPOs and a reverse indemnity for statutory funding, which was approved by Ritchie J.
- Acting for one of the defendants in a tetraplegic claim arising from a mountain biking accident with allegations of negligent downhill trail design. Primary liability, contributory negligence and very substantial quantum were all dealt with in a negotiated nuisance-value settlement after a tri-party mediation.

- Recovering £14m at a JSM for a claimant with the combination of serious brain and orthopaedic injuries.

- Successfully acting for a defendant in a 2-week quantum trial (part remote and part in person) over the nature and extent of an alleged brain injury following an accident at work, which involved evidence from, and cross examination of, five disciplines of experts.
- A case of allegedly hugely-disabling functional neurological / somatic disorder following a minor RTA, successfully settled after strong approach taken at interlocutory hearings, then negotiation.

- Advising a defendant employer in a claim where the claimant employee fell from the top deck of a car transporter suffering a catastrophic brain injury. Damages of £15m claimed. All aspects of liability and quantum in issue and no positive evidence of how the accident occurred, so it was necessary to reconstruct from inference and expert engineering evidence the probability of what happened and how and when the safety rail may have been weakened. Claim successfully settled.
- Acting for a young claimant suffering a devastating combination of brain and orthopaedic injuries in an RTA. Damages of £20m claimed. Successful in opposing the introduction of life expectancy evidence from statisticians.

- Regularly acting for claimants in mesothelioma cases where immunotherapy treatment is or may be provided, and negotiating terms of settlement which provide for payment of those ongoing treatment costs.
